Meandering Along the Main Stem
By WASH FAYETTE

At the present time a large and very attractive cactus on the lawn of the Mr. and Mrs. Willard Graves home, 352 West Court Street, is attracting widespread attention by reason of its great number of flame-colored blossoms, some of which are nearly five inches across.

Mrs. Graves obtained a start of the cactus a number of years ago from her grandmother, Mrs. Cash Kirk, of New Holland, now deceased, and she treasures the unusual plant very highly.

The flat stalks of the cactus bear the huge blossoms which are attached to one side of the stalks, most of them near the end of each stalk.

It is worth a trip to the Graves premises to see the big cactus.

Many of you folks remember when the old C. H. and D. "burnt wood" depot stood on the north side of what is now the B. and O. Railroad, on the west side of South Fayette Street.

It was dubbed the "burnt wood" depot because a fire had damaged the old passenger station, and in fact had burned away one end of it, leaving charred wood in abundance.

For years it stood there in all of its charred glory, and remained in use until the Union Station was erected and passenger offices moved to there.

Then the old structure, that had been used for both passenger accommodations and freight, was torn down, but not before a new building was erected on the west side of Main Street. It is still in use by the B. and O.

A few days ago I saw an automobile parked up street, and tied to its side was a six foot sickle for a mowing machine.

Instantly, I recalled the days when I was a freckled-face kid and one of my innumerable jobs was to turn the old grindstone while dad or an older brother held one of the mowing machine sickles and ground each side of those endless sickles.

It was bad enough to turn that old grindstone (I know a lot of you folks have done the same thing) for ordinary grinding. The grindstone was mounted on two sloping timbers set against a building, with a wooden shaft through it, to which was attached a wooden crank, and turning the heavy stone by hand, with pressure of the tool being ground, was no easy job.

When it came to grinding a mowing machine sickle I knew a few blisters were in store where the handle of the crank burned my palms.

Sometimes I have turned that old grindstone for an hour or two at a stretch, while the sections of the sickle were being ground. Boy! o boy! was it weary work! I would stand on first one side of the crank and then the other in turning that old stone to sharpen the sickle, ax or other implements.

I would turn, and turn and turn that old stone until my tongue would hang out and my legs almost give way from sheer exhaustion.

Well, perhaps those were the days of real sport on the farm, but they certainly had their drawbacks!

Later grindstones, mounted upon light framework, and turned with foot pedals, simplified the grinding work. Then came the emery wheels and other speedy grinding tools, but today an electrical motor furnishes power for grinding on a great many farms, and the drudgery of the old hand-turned grindstone has all but vanished.

COAL FROM AMERICA WILL GO TO EUROPE

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(P)—Secretary of the Interior Ickes today announced that if possible, about 6,000,000 tons of American coal will be shipped to Europe for civilian use, between now and January 1.

He said he wanted the Americans to "know that this decision involves the risk that we may have to suffer a shortage of coal in this country next winter more acute than heretofore predicted," and that coal allotments for home consumption may have to be reduced.

Earlier, he had predicted "the worst fuel shortage of the war" for this country.

WORLD TRADE PLANS FOR U. S. LAID BY SENATE

Bretton Woods Agreement for Stabilization Fund and Bank Approved

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(P)—The United States Congress today became the first big power parliamentary body to approve the 44-nation Bretton Woods international monetary program.

Final approval was by unanimous voice vote in the House after that body had accepted minor Senate amendments to the measure originally passed by the House. The action sends the legislation to President Truman for his signature.

Earlier congressional leaders had expressed hope that Mr. Truman would receive the legislation while attending the Big Three Conference at Potsdam.

Meanwhile, Senator Murdock (D-Utah) told the Senate today that America's immediate post-war problem will not be to find international trade but to take care of that which comes voluntarily.

Senator Langer (R-ND) had suggested amending the export-import bank legislation to provide for stationing representatives of the bank in major trade centers throughout the world. The legislation expands the bank's lending power from $700,000,000 to $3,500,000,000. The bank finances exports and imports.

With Bretton Woods out of the way, a world-minded Senate prepared today to pump $2,800,000,000 into the Export-Import Bank to finance postwar international trade.

Expected speedy passage of legislation to increase the bank's lending authority would lift to $8,725,000,000 the commitments toward world reconstruction and stability the Senate has approved in clearing its decks for scheduled ratification next week of the United Nations Charter.

The major share of these funds, under legislation approved yesterday by a 61 to 16 vote, goes to the international bank and stabilization fund upon which 44 nations agreed at Bretton Woods, N. H., a year ago.

The Bretton Woods measure, fought to the last by a small group of Republicans, traveled back to the House for expected approval there of minor amendments.

FOREST FIRE SLOWS CLOSE TO VILLAGE

Stoic Housewives Wipe Dishes Anyway

PORLTAND, Ore., July 20.—(P)—A few stoic housewives in Glenwood, a lumber town 50 miles northwest of here, calmly wiped the morning dishes away with a 55-square mile forest fire only 500 to 1,000 feet away.

The giant Wilson River blaze, which roared so close to Glenwood last night that about 100 persons were evacuated, slowed as it hit green timber near the town.

The women who refused to leave continued their usual chores today amid a blue smoke fog. The men, employees of Consolidated Timber Company on whose property the tiny village lies, were all on fire lines.

65-YEAR-OLD GOLD DIGGER USES MAIL TO FOOL VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(P)—A "bushel basket" of letters will be introduced as evidence in a matrimonial mail case, A. U. S. postal inspector said today.

Inspector W. T. Quay made the statement at the arraignment of Mrs. C. Mildred Hill, 65, charged with using the mails to defraud.

Quay said that Mrs. Hill, arrested in Chicago recently on the using the mails to defraud charge, has been arrested twice before on similar charges.

In March, 1926, he said, she was indicted in Huntington, W. Va., but the case was nolle prossed after she claimed she had 10 dependent children. Nine months later, he continued, she was arrested in Cleveland on the same charges.

10,000 Japs Still On Okinawa

By ROBERT GEIGER

OKINAWA, July 20.—(P)—An estimated 10,000 Japanese troops are hiding in northern Okinawa's rugged mountains, the Army estimated today, a month after the island was captured.

The Nipponese are being hunted down and killed at an average of 50 daily, it was announced at headquarters of Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of the 24th Army Corps.

The announcement followed the first Japanese aerial attack on the island in nearly a month. Three enemy planes were downed by Marine night fighters.

Radio Tokyo claimed, without confirmation, Nipponese raiders "cornered and attacked a group of enemy warships" in Okinawa waters yesterday and sank a cruiser and large transport.

LOGGERS WORK desperately to save a bridge over the Wilson River as a disastrous forest fire swept across the mountains of Tillamook County. The bridge provided the only means of moving equipment out of the fire zone. More than 1500 servicemen from Army and Navy stations in Oregon and Washington were rushed to help fight the fire as it continued spreading over a large area. (International Soundphoto)

No Territory Wanted By U. S., Truman Declares at Potsdam

By DANIEL DE LUCE

POTSDAM, July 20.—(P)—

President Truman, speaking at a symbolic flag raising over conquered Berlin, said today the United States wanted not one piece of territory, but "peace and prosperity for the world as a whole."

The speech had great significance against its background of the Big Three conference, where the president is joining Britain and Russia in helping to settle European boundary and other problems.

"We are raising this flag in the name of the people of the United States, who are looking forward to a better world, a peaceful world, in which all the people will have an opportunity of enjoying peace and opportunity," Mr. Truman said.

The Stars and Stripes raised over the United States group council headquarters—in the former headquarters of Germany's air defense—was the flag that flew over the Capitol in Washington the day the United States entered the war against the Axis. It flew over Rome when the first Axis capital was captured. It is destined to be raised over Tokyo.

"Let's not forget that we are fighting for peace and for the welfare of mankind," Mr. Truman told the troops lined up for the ceremony. "We are not fighting for conquest."

"There is not one piece of territory or one thing of a monetary nature that we want out of this war. We want peace and prosperity for the world as a whole. We want to see the time come when we can do the things in peace that we have been able to in war..."

Five Ways To Get Sugar Are Proposed By Ohioan

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(P)—

Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, Ironton, O., Republican, says unless sugar is made immediately available to housewives, canners and other commercial users "much of the produce of victory gardens and vast quantities of other foods are certain to be lost."

The chairman of the Republican congressional food committee yesterday made to the House these five specific recommendations to relieve the sugar situation.

"1. Borrow sugar from the United Kingdom.

"It is reported that for more than two years past Great Britain has held stocks of sugar in excess of normal peacetime practice. It is recommended that administration food officials make arrangements to borrow immediately 200,000 or more tons of sugar now in the West Indies...

"2. Borrow sugar from military allocations.

"Transfer allocations of sugar temporarily from military to essential civilian use...

"3. Embargo exportation of American-allocated sugar.

"A month ago the Republican Congressional Food Study committee strongly recommended that an embargo be placed on the shipment of sugar available to the United States to any foreign country until such time as their actual stockpiles are disclosed justified.

"4. Expand sugar beet production.

"It is recommended that a policy be established at once that will encourage the greatest possible acreage of sugar beet production.

"5. Prepare now to produce sugar in the Orient.

"Steps should now be taken by the administration to move in immediately after our military forces with the necessary machinery and equipment to bring about speedy production of sugar cane."

TOLL FREE PASSAGE IN SUEZ IS ASKED

British Pass Through Panama Canal Free

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(P)—

The army is releasing men at the rate of 4000 a day, with nearly 200,000 already discharged under the point system.

Acting Secretary of War Patterson reported the figures in a news conference explanation yesterday of why the army refused to meet recent demands of 50 industrial and professional groups that soldiers be discharged to meet civilian needs.

At this time, Patterson said, the army is returning to civilian life about twice as many as it is taking in through induction.

RELEASE OF 30,000 MEN AS MINERS IS APPROVED

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(P)—

The Senate military affairs committee approved today a resolution urging the release of 30,000 men from the army to work in the bituminous coal mines.

Senator Revercomb (R-W.Va.) said he hoped the resolution may be considered today by the senate.

This was learned today along with the fact that while this country lend-leases all Panama Canal charges on British ships, the United States paid $11,345,390 on Suez tolls from the start of the war to last January 1.

As troops pour eastward from European battlefields shipping going through the vital Suez gateway will mount.

U. S. British negotiations on the Suez charges were revealed in an exchange of letters between Representative Robertson (R-ND) and the foreign economic administration.

BIBLE SCHOOL SCHEDULED AT GRACE CHURCH

August 6 Will Be First Day Of Ten Days of Classes

A daily vacation Bible school will open August 6 at Grace Methodist Church, Rev. George B. Parkin, the pastor, announced today.

The school will last through August 17 and will be in session from 8:30 A. M. to 11 A. M. A conference of workers and helpers is scheduled at Rev. Parkin's home Tuesday at 8 P. M.

"The objectives of the school are worship and study and work and play. Its purpose is to give the child an idea of the value of worship and how to worship; to become familiar with the great passages of the Bible and with the great hymns of the church," Rev. Parkin said. Organized play and craft work also will be included in the Bible School program, he added.

The school is to be divided into three sections—Kindergarten for children four and five years of age; primary department for youngsters six, seven and eight years old and the junior department for boys and girls from nine to 12.

JAPS PULLING BACK FOR INVASION DEFENSE; ALLIED FLEET SILENT

ment of the entrances to Tokyo Bay was reminiscent of the radio blackout preceding last Saturday's shelling of Kamashii, the first naval gun attack on Japan.

Japanese apologists were kept busy explaining why the emperor's fleet and air forces wouldn't fight until Yank forces attempt an invasion. Unrest in Nippon was reported so great the navy minister admitted Japanese were showing resentment toward their war duties.

Bombs Wreck Industry
More than 600 Superforts hit five industrial targets on the homeland and some 300 Okinawa-based army planes hit Nippon's largest airfield in China, while other far ranging planes sank or damaged 23 more Nipponese ships. Among them was a 10,000-ton freighter, a rarity these days.

Two B-29s failed to return from today's heaviest attack, it was probably the most lightly opposed of all Superfort sorties. Bombers reported these results:

The target area in Fukui, west Honshu industrial center which was brightly lighted when B-29s came over, "completely destroyed." Chosi, a fishing port, turned into "a mass of flames." Fires well-spaced among the "shadow industries" of Ozasaki. Fires lit throughout Hitachi which the fleet bombarded Tuesday. A big explosion in the Nippon oil refinery near Osaka with flames visible for 100 miles.

Thirty skip-bombing Thunderbolt fighter planes attacking southern Japan blockaded three railroad tunnels around Kago-shima. This cut off land communication between the munitions and submarine producing city and the rest of Kyushu Island.

Fighter-escorted bombers attacking the Shanghai area through heavy cloud cover unloaded 290 tons of bombs on elaborate Kiang-pan airfield. It was the heaviest blow struck at the Asiatic continent from Okinawa.

The Japanese air force came out of hiding to attack Okinawa airfields on two successive nights. Tokyo claimed a cruiser and a large transport were sunk. American reports told only of the knocking down of six attacking planes.

Ground forces hunted down some 10,000 Nipponese soldiers reported still hiding in the caves of the northern mountains on the airbase island. They were being killed off at the rate of 50 a day. More than 100,000 Japanese were killed in the 82 day campaign. Ten thousand have been killed and captured since then.

An idea of how long the hunt may go on was a report from Guam, now the greatest naval base in the Pacific, that 13,932 Japanese have been killed in the Marianas Islands since they were announced as secured.

In one of the war's most bizarre touches, Australian troops overrunning Borneo's rich Sambodja oil fields found the area, capable of producing 7,000,000 barrels of high grade crude oil a year, defended by only two Japanese.

The field was in flames. That was the way the Japanese got it. They drilled new wells and increased production. The Allies are expected to do the same. The Japanese have left every oil field in flames that they have lost since the Aussies invaded the Borneo area May 1—Tarakan, Miri, Seria and now Sambodja.

U. S. Army records show that the soldiers in this war average well over five feet eight inches as compared with five feet seven and a half inches for draftees in World War I.

AIR SUPPLY DOES IT

CALCUTTA—(P)—The defeat of the Japanese in air supply in the long Burma campaign, during which cargo crews, mostly American, carried hundreds of thousands of tons of materiel, including heavy arms, machinery and mules, and moved whole divisions intact with equipment over land of well-nigh impossible ground communications.

This was the second observed attempt of the Japanese in air supply in the long Burma campaign, during which cargo crews, mostly American, carried hundreds of thousands of tons of materiel, including heavy arms, machinery and mules, and moved whole divisions intact with equipment over land of well-nigh impossible ground communications.

The other time the Japanese tried it was in March when the late Maj.-Gen. Ord Charles Wingate's Chindits had been ferried to the Burma lines by glider and transport plane to seize air-strips 200 miles behind Japanese lines.

There a Japanese bomber dropped several parachutes of supplies to enemy troops just off the jungle-fringed airfield. They all fell into the allied perimeter.

The Japanese score for two attempts at what has become routine supply lines on the Allied side thus stands at zero.

From the peak month of March, the allied air supply for Burma has dwindled with the progress of the cleanup of Japanese and now operates solely as an RAF unit supplementing the new sea and land line of supply to imperial troops through reoccupied Rangoon. The air operation had become so dependable that the 23,739 tons landed or dropped for troops and civil population in June was within 38 tons of the weight asked by Burma headquarters.

Soap was invented as far back as the first century.

Japanese plane dropped one parachute laden with medical stores and batteries near Bawnaigyi village, nine miles from Pegu—and the cargo was recovered by a British patrol who shooed away enemy soldiers. The nature of the cargo suggested that the effort was made to succor a high-ranking enemy officer.

Because of lack of power it was difficult for the plane to take off herein a stiff wind, but with nearly as much again power as the first model had the plane will be able to negotiate any ordinary wind in the take-off, in flight, and landing.

The helicopter carries some vast improvements over the model shown at the Fair a year ago, Whitfield said. It is powered with a 165 instead of 90 horsepower motor with which the first model was equipped.

Because of lack of power it was difficult for the plane to take off herein a stiff wind, but with nearly as much again power as the first model had the plane will be able to negotiate any ordinary wind in the take-off, in flight, and landing.

It was at first planned to produce the helicopters at the API plant here following the war, but others plans for postwar production have been decided upon for the local plant. These products are now in the engineering stage.

Schedule of the flights to be made by the helicopter here will be announced later.

The Valley of Decision

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE—
The Chungking National Herald, which speaks for the Chinese foreign office, has come out in support of the proposal by the people's political council that the Allies hang Emperor Hirohito of Japan as a war criminal.

"Let him be hanged with the rest of the gang," exclaims the newspaper.

Well, it's easy to understand this feeling, after all that China has suffered at the hands of her barbaric neighbors. And the Chinese aren't the only people who have a long account to settle with the Japs. However, one questions whether we should be wise to hang the Mikado and, that being so, whether it is discreet to advocate it in advance of an allied decision. Such a proposal, coming from Chungking, can only have the effect of making the Nipponese fight harder and longer at this critical juncture.

The argument for executing the Mikado is that Japanese militarism is built about him as god-emperor. It's said, and rightly, that it is because his subjects regard him as divine that they fight so fanatically for him.

However, it's one thing to say Hirohito is the symbol about which the people rally, and quite another to credit him with being the real head of the government or of the militaristic machine. There's some doubt whether he knows exactly what it's all about. In any event, he is being used as a tool by the militarists.

It can be argued, of course, a religion like Shinto (the way of the Gods), which lends itself to the machinations of the warlords, is better smashed. Still, it is fairly obvious that if we did hang the emperor and did try to destroy the religion, we should be creating chaos in Japan, and therefore should be undertaking a dangerous experiment.

For this reason—and not because of any regard for Hirohito or his religion—many observers feel that the allies should proceed circumspectly. At any rate, before advertising the hanging they should have made up their minds definitely that they are going to carry it out, and risk prolonging the war. Here it should be added—and this is important, I believe—that decision not to hang the emperor wouldn't preclude forcing him to give up his throne to a more suitable incumbent.

Word from Potsdam is that President Truman reportedly is trying to clear the way for concentration of the Big Three on the war against Japan, and observers are watching intently to see what steps the trio may take to expedite unconditional surrender. Mr. Truman is said to maintain that the saving of American lives is of paramount importance to the American government. So one would think that the question of unconditional surrender would take precedence over the hanging of the uncaught Mikado.

Purely as a matter of speculation, it seems clear that should Russia come into the war, it would greatly shorten the conflict. One of the prime reasons, as I see it, is that the Allies could render Manchuria impotent rather quickly by striking from Soviet soil. Many of Japan's war industries are in Manchuria, and if these were destroyed both Nippon and her big war-machine on the continent would be in a bad way.

If the Russians do enter the war, they may in due course invade Manchuria with their armies, unless Japan surrenders. However, unless the Muscovites struck quickly they might have to postpone the operation, since there are only about six weeks before bad weather blankets Manchuria and turns the terrain into a mud field which renders movement difficult. Then the ground won't tighten up until about November.

Still, bombing could be carried out on a big scale from Soviet bases. And the Chinese armies could receive badly needed supplies from Russia via Siberia.

LIQUOR RATION STAYS AT SAME FOR NEW PERIOD

WASHINGTON, July 20—(AP)—A Yank Magazine dispatch passed by Chinese censorship today quotes Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek as declaring:

"Given proper equipment and supplies, the Chinese army—together with a strong American air force—can defeat the Japanese on the continent."

Sgt. Walter E. Peters who interviewed Chiang, wrote he told the generalissimo that was an impression among Americans in China that Chiang had said one Chinese soldier was equal to three Americans.

"It is an erroneous impression," Peters quoted Chiang as saying. "The United States soldier is much better equipped."

The point I wanted to bring out was that, where it takes $10 for one United States soldier, only $1 is necessary for ours."

OVERSEAS SURPLUS TO BE UP FOR TRADE

WASHINGTON, July 20—(AP)—This government is willing to consider trading its overseas war surpluses for foreign "rights and concessions" which would foster post-war world trade and amicable relations.

Thomas D. McCabe, army-navy liquidation commissioner, says such trades will be "thoroughly considered" in disposal of the vast array of surplus war goods remaining in countries which might find it difficult to obtain American dollars for outright cash deals.

McCabe filed his report on foreign surplus disposal with the Surplus Property Board's new chairman, William Stuart Symington, after the latter declared his own policies on domestic surplus sales yesterday.

MUCH CANNING HELP NEEDED IN OHIO PLANTS

Supply Here Is Expected To Be Adequate Due To Less Canning

While a great deal of extra labor will be necessary in Ohio canning plants during the season, and the canneries will place a tremendous amount of food on the grocers' shelves, indications are that there will be little difficulty in obtaining labor to man the canning plants in this community due to a reduced program of canning as result of small acreage.

The regional War Manpower Commission office today disclosed the predicted yield of crops grown for canning is so great that at the peak of the season canneries will need at least 11,000 additional workers.

The WMC estimated 18,000 persons were now employed in Ohio canneries.

Commission spokesmen said they planned an appeal to Washington for assignment of additional German prisoners of war to the plants and an intensive recruiting program in cannery areas.

Some 800 prisoners are now employed in food processing and previous plans called for increasing that number to 2,200, they added.

WMC officials said despite the freakish spring weather which appears to damage most of the principal canning items, the peach crop would be "very, very good," and the tomato yield threatened to be greater even than the bumper crop of 1944.

War production cutbacks probably would not help solve the problem, they indicated, because most workers laid off thus far have sought new industrial jobs.

In this city only the Ladaog Company will pack sweet corn, and some lime beans, but the corn acreage is below normal.

The Fayette Canning Co. will pack pumpkin only, and will haul corn grown here to West Jefferson to be packed, due to the small acreage obtained as result of farm labor shortage.

There is no indication that German prison labor or other outside labor will be used here as result of the smaller acreage, and call for less than half the usual number of canning plant workers.

CHINA CAN DEFEAT JAPS, CHIANG SAYS

Equipment Needed To Win War on Continent

CHUNGKING, July 20—(AP)—A Yank Magazine dispatch passed by Chinese censorship today quotes Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek as declaring:

"Given proper equipment and supplies, the Chinese army—together with a strong American air force—can defeat the Japanese on the continent."

Sgt. Walter E. Peters who interviewed Chiang, wrote he told the generalissimo that was an impression among Americans in China that Chiang had said one Chinese soldier was equal to three Americans.

"It is an erroneous impression," Peters quoted Chiang as saying. "The United States soldier is much better equipped."

The point I wanted to bring out was that, where it takes $10 for one United States soldier, only $1 is necessary for ours."

OVERSEAS SURPLUS TO BE UP FOR TRADE

WASHINGTON, July 20—(AP)—This government is willing to consider trading its overseas war surpluses for foreign "rights and concessions" which would foster post-war world trade and amicable relations.

Thomas D. McCabe, army-navy liquidation commissioner, says such trades will be "thoroughly considered" in disposal of the vast array of surplus war goods remaining in countries which might find it difficult to obtain American dollars for outright cash deals.

McCabe filed his report on foreign surplus disposal with the Surplus Property Board's new chairman, William Stuart Symington, after the latter declared his own policies on domestic surplus sales yesterday.

Stones

A father rambling with his young son on a vacation hike stoops and picks up a stone. He is about to throw it away when their attention is caught by curious patterns on one side, with pits and traceries, and odd shell forms scattered through them. The boy turns to his father and asks, "Who made these?"

The father replies, "God made them." But the boy wants to know how and when, and what for. And that brings up problems of time and purpose that it would take a very wise man, indeed, to answer.

That one little stone, and a little boy's curiosity, involve the whole subject of geology and plants and animals, and the various "kingdoms" into which scientists have divided them, and how they developed and spread through millions of years, from the time when what are now people were probably mere atoms floating in a starless sky through infinite space.

"Yet even then," says the father, "there were the beginnings of life, and you and I and your mother, waiting somehow through the long ages, until we became what we are now."

The boy looks at his stone for a long time in silence. Then, "I will keep this stone. I would like to know about all the stones."

The fruit of that trip is the birth of wonder and a search for knowledge.

Antipodes

If the ancient Greeks or the medieval scientists came to life today, they might be most astonished at their country's having allies from Australia and New Zealand. For, they would say, if the world is round, as many admitted before Columbus proved it, then these people must be at the bottom, with their feet facing ours (hence the name Antipodes given to this part of the world), and would certainly fall off.

Now we know that the force of gravity keeps people firmly glued to the earth's surface, without danger either of dropping off, if they live in Australia, or flying up into space if they are Europeans. But till Sir Isaac Newton discovered the law of gravity, logic seemed to call for the bottom of the world being uninhabited.

A lot of other things are even more topsy-turvy without as good an explanation.

French Elections

The announcement, by the French Council of Ministers, of a national election for October 14, to create a new National Assembly which will frame a new Constitution to be submitted to general referendum, sounds good to the rest of the world. If the Constitution is good and is accepted, new life may begin for France. If rejected, the nation goes back to the Constitution of 1875, elects a Chamber of Deputies, and starts all over again.

The government of France in the last quarter-century has been far from satisfactory. Whether the 1875 Constitution was at fault, or the spirit of people failing, or simply that the men of an age to

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—When that deceptively quiet human dynamo Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley comes back to Washington in August to take over the Veterans' Administration, he will face just as tough a job on the home front as he faced in the Mediterranean and European war theaters.

That the Veterans' Administration is an antiquated bureaucracy is no reflection on Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, whom Gen. Bradley will succeed. Hines took over VT 22 years ago when he had to break ground with a short-handled spade.

He had to deal with disgruntled veterans who had no "GI Bill of Rights" to greet them when they were discharged after World War I. He had to deal with the rapidly expanding power of the national veterans' organizations. He had to deal with a Congress that was playing political football with every demand and complaint the veterans made. The fact that he stayed in office for 22 years, with only a modicum of criticism until recently, speaks a remarkable record.

Today's Horoscope

If you have a birthday today, you are ambitious, enthusiastic in your work, and easily adapt yourself to changes in circumstances and surroundings. Your judgment is shrewd. You are courageous. Failure spurs you on to new efforts. You take pride in having a beautiful home. The usual routine of the day may impress you as being very dull. You can pep it up—even the most casual duties—by making it a part of the game of achievement. Try it.

One-Minute Test Answers

2. A large Chinese vessel with lug sails.
3. One which is less than a right angle.

be leaders were killed in the first World War, the fact remains that there were too many parties, none very clear as to its own purpose. That is, the leaders of a small party may have known what they wanted, but none of them succeeded in making a clear and sound appeal to the people by which they could guide their course. Waves of communism, fascism, reactionary monarchism, labor unionism trying to get too much too fast, swept over the nation. Selfishness was in the saddle. The few voices of forward-looking democracy were drowned in the cross currents.

France needs to have a few simple, strong, important issues set before it by two or at most three parties, and presented by a free, honest and forward-looking press. The crooked press of the past should be tossed out of the window. Straight, clear-thinking French journalists should have a chance to make plain the few strong issues so that every one from the gaudiest intellectual to the lowliest common-sensible peasant could become clear in his own mind as to what they are and what they will mean. Then, and only then, can France come forward.

Unfinished Cathedral

Anyone with $10,000,000 to spare is invited to give it for the completion of New York's great cathedral, that of St. John the Divine. Lesser amounts, however, will be cheerfully accepted. At least that may be inferred from a statement of Bishop William T. Manning of New York's Episcopal diocese.

St. John the Divine has long been one of New York's great sights. It was started in 1892, and like most other cathedrals is a long time in building. It still has some decades to go, however, before it equals the record of St. Peter's in Rome, which took 120 years to finish, or the Cologne cathedral, which took 632.

When finished, according to Bishop Manning, it will be the second largest cathedral in the world, surpassed only by St. Peter's; a third larger than London's St. Paul's or Notre Dame in Paris. If New York needs any more reasons for attracting visitors, it can offer the sight of one of the remarkable buildings of the world.

By JACK STINNETT

In 1940, however, VT was a dying agency. Had peace continued it would have lingered for many years. Now suddenly it is discovered that this moribund bureau is going to have to carry five or six times the load it carried at the peak of its efficiency, at the same time administering legislation far broader and more complicated than any that ever benefited the soldiers and sailors of the last war.

Soon Gen. Bradley will find about 15,000,000 veterans on his hands. With the home-bound avalanche of returning veterans already under way, he will have to pump rejuvenation into VA until it can carry its tremendous burden.

Those who have been close to Gen. Bradley through his brilliant campaigns in this war are certain he can and will do the job. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower once rebuked the war correspondents for not keeping a closer eye on Bradley. "He's the brains of this army," Gen. Ike said. And the boys found out he meant it. At the time, Gen. Bradley was mapping out the Normandy break-through that led to the collapse of the Germans in the west.

Through most of that campaign he was chained to his desk—an executive—directing the operations of three armies totaling a million men. The ramifications of VA, as multitudinous as they are, can be no more complex than those he already has met and mastered.

Gen. Bradley leads a Spartan daily life. Like President Truman he's a 6:30 riser and a tireless worker. His 52 years rest lightly on him. He once was described as having "the stride, energy and bearing of a well-built farmboy." His tastes and pleasures are as simple as if he had never moved away from Moberly, Mo.

Pains in the Lower Abdomen

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

When a person has pain at recurring intervals in the right lower part of the abdomen he is most likely to believe that the condition is caused by chronic appendicitis. Then, he may have the appendix removed, and unfortunately, may find that he has obtained no relief from his symptoms. If the pain is due to chronic appendicitis, removal of the appendix will, of course, relieve the trouble.

Sometimes, however, the trouble is due to some other cause such as a mild bowel inflammation, trouble with the right kidney, or, in women, the right fallopian tube, as well as other causes.

Chronic Appendicitis

According to Doctor Oscar J. Cervino of Argentina, chronic appendicitis results from repeated acute attacks of inflammation of the appendix. Thus it has been found that in group of patients who had chronic appendicitis and who had suffered repeated acute attacks, removal of the appendix brought complete relief to nine out of every ten. In other patients who supposedly had chronic appendicitis, but who had not suffered previous acute attacks, removal of the appendix brought about a cure in only two out of 25.

In chronic appendicitis, according to Doctor Cervino, the pain in the right lower part of the abdomen may be slight but is continuous. It frequently passes downward into the leg or upward into the pit of the stomach. In women, the pain may be worse during the regular monthly periods. It is not made worse or better by eating.

However, it may develop from two to three hours after meals and may also be brought on by exercise. It is often accompanied by sickness to the stomach and sometimes by vomiting. Frequently, there is slight fever which develops most often during the evening and lasts for a few hours. Most of the patients suffer from constipation. However, occasionally there may be diarrhea.

X-ray examination, while helpful in diagnosing chronic appendicitis is not a sure fire method.

However, by means of X-ray examination, the size, shape and mobility of the appendix may be determined and this evidence, together with the symptoms and findings on physical examination, may make a diagnosis possible.

Of course, whenever a person has pain in the abdomen, a complete and careful study by a physician is necessary. If there have been repeated attacks of acute appendicitis and the symptoms point to the fact that chronic appendicitis has developed, removal of the appendix is, of course, advisable.

LIAISON OFFICER OF DRAFT BOARD HERE THURSDAY

Calls for Men from Fayette County Have Been Small Lately

Capt. Edwin A. Mays, liaison officer for Fayette County's selective service board, was here Thursday on one of his trips to see how the draft machinery is running.

The calls for men from this county have been small for some time and there is no indication whether or not the present trend will keep up, it was said at the draft board.

All men who are discharged must report at the board. If that man was not registered with selective service before he entered the service, he must register just as the 18 year old boys do. He is reclassified by the draft board at a regular meeting.

Keeping the files up to date on reclassifications, registrations and discharges, is a full time job and one that keeps Mrs. Homer Scott and Mrs. Lorie Robison busy virtually all the time. Notices of reclassification also are mailed to both the registrant and to the employer. New registrants come in constantly to add their names to the relatively simple filing system which is kept in apple pie order all the time.

DRIVER IS FINED FOLLOWING WRECK

Second Driver Has Ribs Broken in Crash

L. V. Risch, Logan, driver of a Reo truck that allegedly passed through a stop sign at Hinde and Temple streets Thursday afternoon, and was struck by one of the big Ohio Delivery trucks laden with paper, was fined $25 and costs for failing to stop, when cited before Judge R. H. Sites.

Risch said he did not see the stop sign and was moving slowly at the time.

The Ohio Delivery truck swerved southward, knocked the Reo truck some 40 feet, and finally came to a stop after crashing heavily into a tree on the west side of Hinde street.

The Ohio Delivery truck driver, Emerson Jones, of Chillicothe, sustained several fractured ribs.

pany, The Laclede Packing Company and Sieloff Packing Company in protest over what union workers called the company's refusal to negotiate for wage adjustments.

There were no developments along the strike fronts in nearly a score of other cities. Five major disputes in the Detroit area kept 24,600 idle, including 14,000 workers in 200 lumber yards which closed yesterday in a dispute involving a new union contract.

An estimated 3000 workers were idle today as a walkout of 500 supervisors at the Wright Aerautical plant moved into its third day.

George Woods, president of the local Foremen's Association of America representing the supervisors, said the company was forced to lay off approximately 3000 employees for lack of supervision.

The supervisors walked out. Woods asserted, after three of their organization were suspended in what a company spokesman said was a disciplinary measure. The plant is producing B-29 engines.

The strike of 124 operators employed by the Warren Telephone Co. here and in nearby Newton Falls entered its fifth day with no indications of a settlement in sight.

Although the National War Labor Board in Washington reported it sent the strikers a back-to-work order, local officials of the AFL-International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers asserted they had not received it.

SCOUTS TO HELP WITH FAIR WORK ALL NEXT WEEK

Parking Cars, Ushering, Running Aid Station Is On Program

There will be no Boy Scout exhibit at the Fair, but the Boy Scouts themselves will be there to make themselves useful in a dozen ways.

Five Boy Scout troops and four cub packs will help to park cars, help people in the grandstand find seats and will run errands. Another important part of their job will be running a first aid station.

X. L. Garrison, Boy Scout field executive here, will be on hand to keep everything running smoothly. The boys will work in shifts of about 24 a day in order to take care of all their duties.

The Scouts will not camp on the Fairground as has been the custom in past years, Garrison said. Most of the work probably will be shouldered by the younger boys as nearly all the older scouts are working during the day.

MERCURY HITS 89 THURSDAY

Scorching Days of Year Ago Are Recalled

A peak temperature of 89 here Thursday afternoon, with reading that was expected to pass that mark Friday afternoon, local citizens recalled the long siege of hot weather that gripped the community for many weeks last year.

During this time in July last year nearly every day recorded 90 to as much as 102 degrees, with the mercury lurking around 94 to 96 much of the time for the daily peak.

Not only was the heat intense, but there was little rainfall, and pastures, gardens and crops generally, with exception of the corn, were badly scorched, with most of the gardens almost a complete failure after July 1.

During the past few days farmers generally have been making the most of wheat and hay harvest, as well as final plowing of their corn.

WORLD TRADE PLANS FOR U. S. LAID AFTER BRETON WOODS OK'D

It provides the United States shall contribute $3,175,000,000 toward the bank's $9,100,000,000 for reconstruction and development loans. It would put up $2,750,000,000 of an $8,800,000,000 fund to support world currencies.

In contrast, the measure to boost the Export-Import Bank's loan funds from $700,000,000 to $3,500,000,000 had clear sailing.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who led the battle against the Bretton Woods bill, called the Export-Import Bank increase "sensible."

It was reported unanimously by the banking committee in the form previously approved by the House and favorable Senate action will send it to President Truman for his signature.

With the increased authority, bank officials expect to lend money on shipments of American products abroad. About $1,000,000,000 of this has been earmarked to finance the sale of U. S. machinery and other products to Russia.

Passage of this measure will wipe the Senate's slate clean of major proposals so that it can spend next week talking about the international peace-keeping organization that 50 nations agreed at San Francisco to establish.

OVER HALF GOAL OF MEMBERSHIP IN C OF C MET

H. H. Denton Heads Standing Membership Committee Named Thursday

Over 60 percent of the new Chamber of Commerce membership goal has been reached, Ray Brandenburg, president of the chamber, said Thursday night at a meeting of the membership committee in the Record-Herald clubrooms.

At the same meeting, H. H. Denton, International Harvester representative, was appointed permanent chairman for 1945-46 of a standing membership committee. George Pensyl of the C. Gossard Co., was named vice-chairman. The two men will choose the rest of their committee.

James M. Riffe, Jr., executive vice president of the chamber, mentioned new plans for membership activity and said: "All those who have not been contacted and extended an invitation of membership in the chamber are asked to bear with us as no one must be denied the opportunity of associating themselves with this new progressive organization in Washington C. H. A number of our workers have been busy on their farms and the normal pressure of business has hindered many of our members from making more contacts."

MRS. SCOTT EASTER CALLED BY DEATH

Funeral Service To Be Held Monday Afternoon

Mrs. Beatrice Easter died in a Columbus hospital at 2 o'clock Friday morning following an illness of about two years.

A native of Fayette County, she had lived in and near Washington C. H. most of her life where she had made many friends. Much of her interest had centered at the First Baptist Church, of which she had long been a member.

Besides her husband, Daniel Scott Easter, she is survived by one son, Don Easter, now at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, a daughter, Miss Jean Easter, in the office of the Montgomery Ward Store here, at home, and a granddaughter, little Linda Easter. A brother, Byron Butters, is her only other close relative here.

Her son, a newspaperman, was on the staff of the Record-Herald for several years before going to Springfield and then to Columbus. He was on the desk of the Ohio State Journal for a time and at the time he entered the service he was on the staff of the Columbus Citizen. He is expected here for the services.

Funeral services are to be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Klever Funeral Home.

Friends may call there any time after Saturday noon.

MARYSVILLE ESCAPEE CAPTURED BY SCOUTS

MARYSVILLE, O., July 20—(AP)—

The first escape in three and a half years at the Ohio Reformatory for Women occurred yesterday, but the fugitive was recaptured a few hours after Boy Scouts found her in a woods. She was Kathryn Pacgard, 25, of Cleveland, who was admitted to the institution June 15 to serve a term for grand larceny.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

HOUSING HERE IS STUDIED BY C OF C AND API

Chamber Promises Help To Relief Situation; Units Foreseen

The Chamber of Commerce here is ready to do everything it can to help relieve the housing situation here.

That much was assured when M. J. Whitfield, executive vice president of the API, and James M. Riffe, Jr., executive vice president of the chamber of commerce, met Thursday afternoon.

Riffe said, in his opinion, a limited number of housing units would be made available here within the next 30 days. He did not elaborate on his statement but hinted the chamber had been working on the housing problem.

"The inadequate housing facilities are extremely apparent here at the API in that 70 percent of the employees maintain residence in some other locality. It is virtually impossible for them to establish a local residence. In reviewing the record here at the API during the winter and spring, snow drifts and floods contributed greatly toward the excessive absentee record which at times reached an astounding figure of 30 percent of the total employees," Whitfield said.

Housing is only one business in Washington C. H., Riffe said. It becomes apparent that other businessmen are faced with the same problems, he added.

Section two of the bill says:

"The board of commissioners in any county in the state may, by resolution duly passed by the board and recorded in its journal within thirty days after the effective date of this act and in the ensuing years, at their organization meeting on the first Monday of January of each year, provide that a bounty of not less than one dollar nor more than five dollars, be paid in the manner hereinafter provided for each red or gray fox killed in their county by an inhabitant thereof. Such resolution shall govern the next ensuing year and shall state whether bounty is to be paid for red fox or gray fox or both and the sum to be paid for each fox so killed."

"Section Three: Any person applying for such bounty shall take the four paws of the destroyed fox to the sheriff of the county wherein the fox was killed together with his affidavit setting forth that said fox was killed in said county together with the name of the township in which it was killed. Such sheriff when satisfied that the facts contained in such affidavit are true, shall thereupon issue and deliver to the applicant a certificate stating the bounty to which the applicant is entitled and shall at once destroy all such fox paws and place the affidavit on file for one year, but such certificate shall not issue unless there is a fund in the county treasury out of which such bounty shall be paid. Upon presentation of such certificate, the county auditor shall issue a warrant upon the county treasurer for amount stated therein. The county auditor shall notify the sheriff in writing when such funds are exhausted."

"Section Four: Any person applying for such bounty shall take the four paws of the destroyed fox to the sheriff of the county wherein the fox was killed together with his affidavit setting forth that said fox was killed in said county together with the name of the township in which it was killed. Such sheriff when satisfied that the facts contained in such affidavit are true, shall thereupon issue and deliver to the applicant a certificate stating the bounty to which the applicant is entitled and shall at once destroy all such fox paws and place the affidavit on file for one year, but such certificate shall not issue unless there is a fund in the county treasury out of which such bounty shall be paid. Upon presentation of such certificate, the county auditor shall issue a warrant upon the county treasurer for amount stated therein. The county auditor shall notify the sheriff in writing when such funds are exhausted."
